HERITAGE

We can not know them all,
These ancestors of ours
Who left us, through the long slow years
Such strangely varied dowers.

One gave me wistful dreams
One love of wind-tossed foam
Another gave a heart that clings
To tranquil ways and home.

One gave me truth and trust,
One gave me pride and fire.
The gift of one was faith enough
To grasp my heart's desire.

Women with laughing lips
And men who fought and dreamed;
So through my veins the changeful tide
Of diverse lives has streamed.

And sometimes I must ask,
As life so strangely runs,
How much of this myself is I,
How much those other ones?

Aline Michaelis.

FOREWORD

It is a far cry from the landing at Plymouth, Mass., of Samuel Sturtevant, the immigrant ancestor of all the Sturtevants in the United States, to the present time. In confining the record to those of the family who were born or have lived in Wisconsin, much of the genealogy of other branches of the family necessarily has been omitted.

It will be noticed that we are direct descendants of Francis Cooke, who came over in the Mayflower. The first court record of Samuel I is dated 1642, when Miles Standish acted as a juror in a case which he had in court, under William Bradford, governor of Massachusetts.

My father, Charles Holmes Sturtevant, came to Delavan in 1841. He had been living with a sister, Mrs. Peck, in Chicago, and came to Delavan to work at his trade, that of a carpenter, traveling on a railroad train from Chicago to Harvard, Ill., then walking the sixteen miles to Delavan. On his way, he cut a hickory walking stick, which for many years hung over the dining room door at the old home at Third and Ladd streets, and which, after his death, was sent to his eldest son, Charles Milton, in Vermont. In later years he was a carriage manufacturer, and a hardware dealer, and after he retired from active business, he was an insurance agent and justice of the peace for many years, until his death in 1889. A great lover of trees, he brought in from the woods a large number of elms and set them out at various places in the village, many of them still standing as monuments to his hobby. He was elected to the Wisconsin legislature as assemblyman from Walworth county, in 1862, serving one term.

As will be seen from the records, he was one of the eighteen children of Francis and Jerusha Bartlett Sturtevant. Four of his brothers followed him to Delavan: Zebina, a stone mason; George, who settled on a farm about five miles from the village; Francis, who went to Michigan after a few years' residence; and William Warren, a merchant. George was the father of nine children and many of his grandchildren and their children still live in and around Delavan. Zebina had 11 children, all of whom but one, Mrs. Mary Cochrane, moved away as young people. Warren had three children, all of whom are dead.

All of my brothers and sisters were born at Delavan; the only members of the family now living there are my sister, Helen, (Mrs. Sharp), and her daughter.

I am indebted to Harold F. Sturtevant, of Detroit, the historian of the Michigan Sturtevants, who is writing a book containing many interesting facts about the first, second and third generations of the family, for copies of the will and the inventory of the estate of Samuel the first; to Mrs. Minnie Bruce Robertson Davis of Pasadena, California, a great-granddaughter of my aunt Millinda, who at her own expense had the genealogy of the first four generations looked up and verified; to Mrs. Jeanette Sturtevant Drake, of Wellsville, New York, a descendant of my great-uncle, Timothy, who found proof of the marriage of James, my great-grandfather, to Ann Leach, after the efforts of others had failed; and to several members of my generation and the succeeding generations, for facts about their families.

The vital records of the various localities in which the members of the last two generations lived may be considered as authority for the facts herein recited.

The compilation of this record has been a work of love on my part, and if succeeding generations but realize what a splendid background they have, and carry on in the best traditions of the family, it will not have been in vain.

JOHN LOOMIS STURTEVANT.

Wausau, Wisconsin, January, 1934.

NOTES

The name Sturtevant appears in the Records in the City of London, England, in the Fourteenth and Fifteenth centuries. The legend is that the name is a variation of "Pursivant" meaning "Herald." Also that one of that name came from Normandy with William the Conqueror and was the ancestor of the English Sturtevants, and therefore of Samuel, the immigrant pioneer. (References: "Surnames of the United Kingdom," Harrison, vol. 2, page 198. "Dictionary of English and Welsh Surnames," Bardsley, pages 725-726. "General Armory," Burke, page 984.)

The "Plymouth, Massachusetts, Records," show that Samuel II and John were residents of Plymouth for many years and their names appear many times as constables, surveyors, jurors and selectmen.

Page 228, of the same records, shows that at a meeting held at Plymouth on April 30, 1694, John Sturtevant was elected "by the major part of the voters ther present to serve for an represent them in the great and general court to begin and held at Boston, in May 30, 1694."

After the death of Samuel Sturtevant I, his widow married Jonathon Bass.

Heitman's Historical Register of Officers in the Continental Army, page 526, shows the following listed as officers: Isaac Sturtevant, Jesse Sturtevant, John Sturtevant, all from Massachusetts.

Saffill Records of the Revolutionary War, page 433, lists Isaac Sturtevant as an officer.

On page 108, of the Plymouth, Massachusetts, Records: "At a meeting held February 15, 1668, the following appears: 'The names of those who were found to be Townsmen of Plymouth according to the above said order which relates unto the time of the establishment of the Town of Plymouth and the bounds thereof sett by the Court which was in the year 1640' ". Samuell Sturtivant's name appears in this list.

The name seems to have been spelled "Sturtivant" in the first and second generations, but the third generation went back to the original form of "Sturtevant."

Kingston, Mass., Dec. 1, 1734.—Francis Sturtevant and Mary his wife, was married before me. Joshua Cushing, Justice of the Peace.

The name of Percy Sturtevant appears on page 158, "Vermont Revolutionary Soldiers."

A James Sturtevant died 1756, Plymouth, leaving a son, Caleb.

In "Ye Burial Hill" at Old Plymouth, Mass., are the following epitaphs on tombstones:

"John Sturtevant, died Feb. 4, 1752, aged 94 years, 5 months.

"Hannah Sturtevant, March 1708, aged 64 years."

My great-grandfather, James, who married Ann Leach, had eight sons, and their names formed a rhyme, as follows:

"Hark and Tim,
Frank and Jim,
Holmes and Cephas,
Bine and Demus."

C. H. S.'s mother's father, Daniel Bartlett, residing at Hadley, Mass., hoed corn on his one hundredth birthday.

C. H. S.'s mother's oldest brother, Daniel Bartlett, who kept a hotel in Hartford, Conn., did his own marketing and rang his own bell for meals at the age of one hundred.

C. H. S.'s mother's father had a sister who lived to be 115 years of age in Vershin or Strafford, Vt. Peley Morey, with whom she lived, resided in Vershin, Vt., and removed to the adjoining town of Strafford.

Thomas Stratton, who married my aunt Elizabeth, was for many years editor of the Danbury, Conn., News, a powerful political paper in its day.

John Sturtevant and Eliza Campbell had a daughter, Mollie, who married George Purrington, and they had two daughters, Della and Minna.

My uncle, John Sturtevant, went to New York in the early part of the 19th century, and was a banker in Wall street. It is probable that the Sturtevant House, at 33d and Broadway, now torn down, in its time one of the leading hotels in New York, was named because of his connection with its financing.

Milinda, who married Mr. Berry, had a daughter, Addie, who married Mr. Stevens. The Stevens had daughter, Lou, who married Mr. Snow of Chicago.

Marenda, who married (1) David Bruce, and (2) Rev. Marston, died about 1897, aged 93. Lived at West Farley, Vt. There were two Bruce sons who went south and fought in the war between the states. Carrie, the daughter of one of them, married Henry Charles House, and lives in Pasadena, California.

Mary and James Shepley had two sons: Charles who was killed in the war between the states, and Howard, who married and died in Chicago.

Francis Sturtevant, who married Lydia Hall, had three children, Fran, Jennie and Minna, who lived in Whitehall, Mich.

My uncle, Austin Dwight Sturtevant, came to Chicago in the early '30's, was a school teacher, and when the "Dearborn School No. 1" was built on Madison street between State and Dearborn, the site of the present Boston store, he was appointed its first principal; it was the first graded school in Chicago. He was, later in life, for many years, Judge of the First Police Court, after which he retired. Hon. A. S. Trude, who died in December, 1933, was his office boy at one time. One of his experiences was to shoot wolves on the prairie where Halsted street, the longest straight street in the world, was subsequently located.

The Lord's Prayer

Written by Thomas Sturtevant while held a prisoner by the British in the War of 1812.

"OUR Lord and King, who reign'st enthroned on high
FATHER and light, mysterious Deity
WHO are the great I am, the last, the first,
ART righteous, holy, merciful and just,
IN realms of glory, scenes where angels sing,
HEAVEN is the dwelling place of God our King
HALLOWED Thy name, which dost all names transcend
BE thou adored, our great Almighty Friend,
THY glory shines beyond creation's space
NAMED in the book of Justice and of Grace,
THY kingdom towers beyond Thy starry skies—
KINGDOM satanic Falls, but thine shall rise.
COME let thine empire, O thou Holy one,
THY great and everlasting will be done—
WILL God make known his power display
BE it the work of mortals to obey.
DONE is the great, the wonderful work of love,
ON Calvary's cross he died, but reigns above.
EARTH bears the record in thy holy word—
AS Heaven adores thy love let earth, O Lord,
IT shines transcendant in The eternal skies,
IS praised in Heaven, for man the Saviour dies,
IN songs unimmortal angels laud his name—
HEAVEN shouts mirth joy, and saints proclaim his love.
GIVE us, O Lord, our food, nor cease to give
US that food on which our souls may live!
THIS be our boon today, and days to come,
DAY without end in our eternal home;
OUR needy souls supply from day to day.
DAILY assist and aid us when we pray.
BREAD though we ask, yet Lord thy blessing lend,
AND make us grateful when our gifts descend.
FORGIVE our sins which in destruction place
US the vile rebels of a rebel race;
OUR follies, faults, and trespasses forgive,
DEBTS which we ne'er can pay, nor thou receive;

AS we, O Lord, our neighbors faults o'erlook,
WE beg thou'dst blot ours from thy memory book.
FORGIVE our enemies, extend thy grace.
OUR souls to save, e'en Adam's guilty race.
DEBTORS to thee in gratitude and love,
AND in that duty paid by saints above.
LEAD us from sin and in thy mercy raise
US from the tempter and his hellish ways,
NOT in our own, but in his name who bled,
INTO thine ear we pour our every need.
TEMPTATION'S fatal charms help us to shun,
BUT may we conquer through thy Conquering Son!
DELIVER us from all which can annoy
US in this world, and may our souls destroy.
FROM all calamities which men betide,
EVIL and death, O turn our feet aside:
FOR we are mortal worms, and cleave to clay;
THINE it is to rule and mortals to obey.
IS not thy mercy, Lord, forever free?
THE whole creation knows no God but thee.
KINGDOM and empire in thy presence fall!
THE King eternal reigns the King of all.
POWER is with thee, to thee be glory given,
AND be thy name adored by earth and Heaven.
THE praise of saints and angels is thine own;
GLORY to thee, the everlasting One,
FOREVER be thy triune name adored;
AMEN! Hosanna! blessed be the Lord!"
